SEEING ENGLAND WITH UNCLE JOHN

The New Humorous Book by Anne Warner

Uncle John's sayings

"I must say I don't care much about churches myself, but they don't take long—there's that to be said for them."

"Astonishing how quick you take up with tea at four o'clock in England. There comes a feeling about four o'clock that nothing but tea will satisfy. I suppose it's the damp and cold. I don't wonder the poor all take to gin here; it must be a great comfort to feel even one hot streak running through you."

The Book

One mad, wild rush—that's the way Uncle John does England.

It's hard on Dilly, his traveling guest, and Yvonne and Lee, frantically trying to catch up; but it's fun for the reader. Incidentally one may learn something, for Yvonne in her letters tells seriously what Uncle John in his monologue tells humorously.

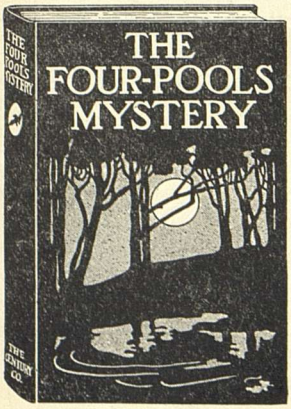
THE FOUR-POOLS MYSTERY



A Great Detective Story

By ?

Here is one of the best, if not the best, stories of mystery and tragedy of recent years. To "Four-Pools," a quiet stock-farm set in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley, comes a worn-out New York lawyer for a vacation. He is a witness of many curious things and of the final tragedy. The unraveling of the mysteries which follow each other with a cumulative interest is due to a clever New York newspaper chap. The book is by a well-known writer but is published anonymously.

Notable New Macmillan Books

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF MODERN HISTORIES IS UNQUESTIONABLY

Lord Cromer's new work on Modern Egypt

The Cosmopolitan, writing in the Boston Transcript, quotes a part of Lord Cromer's frank account of the Gordon episode with the remark: "Everybody is reading Cromer's Egypt presumably."

"A record of practical and humane statesmanship for which it would be hard to find an exact parallel. The charm of these volumes is that the work is recounted by one who was a large part of that which he describes. . . . For rich content, as well as pleasing form, this work of a seasoned statesman is one to be not only read but pondered. In addition to a style notable for simplicity and point, we have sagacious reflections, remarks which light up whole principles of govenrment, characterizations of individuals and of races which reveal a philosophical mind with a disciplined imagination. . . .

"In these volumes we get much more than historical records and political discussions; we get the overflow of a full and powerful mind. The book is so noteworthy because the intellect and the character which have gone to its making are so exceptional. Lord Cromer is not only a great administrator; he stands before us as a great thinker."

NOTABLE CONTRIBUTIONS TO POETRY AND LITERATURE

The Works of Alfred Lord Tennyson In the New Eversley Edition

ANNOTATED BY HIMSELF, EDITED BY HIS SON. Volume II. Just ready.

$1.50 net; by mail, $1.64

The comments supply interesting details in regard to the date and circumstances under which many of the poems were written, bits of correspondence in reference to them from such men as Edward FitzGerald or F. D. Maurice, and now and then a bit of hitherto unpublished verse.

The Golden Hynde, and other poems By Alfred Noyes

"It has seemed to us from the first that Noyes has been one of the most hope-inspiring figures in our latter-day poetry. He, almost alone, of the younger men seems to have the true singing voice, the gift of uttering in authentic lyric cry some fresh, unspoiled emotion."—The Evening Post.

Cloth, 12*mo*, $1.25 net; by mail, $1.35

H. Fielding Hall's attractive new book The Inward Light

"We need its plea for calmness, for inward peace, for the inner light. It will be read with delight by all who seek the faith that is quietness and peace."—Boston Transcript.

Cloth, 12*mo*, $1.75 net; by mail, $1.86

Mr. Percy MacKaye's new play The Scarecrow

The dramatic critic of the Sun remarks: "It cannot be too plainly or too positively said in his own field Mr. MacKaye deserves a place beside the leaders in his art in England and France."

Cloth, 12*mo*, $1.25; by mail, $1.35

Confessio Medici (Anonymous)

"It is quite impossible to convey the elusive, human literary charm of the book. It remains only to say as emphatically as possible that every one who knows the intellectual refreshment of clear, unconventional thought expressed with insight and wit, will give it cordial welcome."—The Outlook.

Cloth, 12*mo*, $1.25; by mail, $1.35

Frank Danby's new novel The Heart of a Child Cloth, $1.50

"'The Heart of a Child' is, beyond question, the author's best novel, carefully planned, vividly suggestive of a real world and real character, touching the human emotions without any more extravagance than they contain themselves. . . . The facility of phrase, and the quickness of action, the successive shifting of scene from one section of London to another, the varied contrast of characters, and its faithful pictures of life both high and low, give to 'The Heart of a Child' a picturesque quality that keeps the reader alert throughout the story."—Daily Evening Transcript, Boston.

TWO NOTABLE BOOKS ON SOCIALISM. INTERESTINGLY DIFFERENT

H. G. Wells's new book New Worlds for Old

One competent critic writes in a personal letter: "It is the wisest and sanest championship of extensive social reconstruction that I have ever seen." Another speaks of it as "written with a directness of language and a purity of spirit which make its reading a continuous delight."

Cloth, 12*mo*, $1.50 net; by mail, $1.61

Mr. Jack London's new novel The Iron Heel

"Every energy of his rare and peculiar gift—the power to command attention by written words, no matter what the topic—has been lavished and exhausted by Mr. London in his 'Iron Heel' brief for socialism. It is sure to be widely read, if only for its graphic—often bald and brutal—statement of imminent and pressing social problems."—North American, Phila.

READY MARCH 28

OLD MR. DAVENANT'S MONEY. A Romance of Long Island. By FRANCES POWELL. $1.50.

A story with a mystery, full of sentiment, incident and dramatic situations. The attractive heroine, the quality of romance and of mystery in absolutely modern and up-to-date surroundings, make this one of the most striking of modern stories.

THE NUN. By RENÉ BAZIN. $1.00.

The exquisite and profoundly powerful story of five nuns driven from the convent into the world by the recent French law.

"It is difficult to speak in measured terms of this story."—Daily Telegraph.

"It is a book which no one who reads it will ever forget."—Westminster Gazette.

PASSING PROTESTANTISM AND COMING CATHOLICISM. By Rev. NEWMAN SMYTH, D.D., Pastor of the First Congregational Church, New Haven. $1.00 net. (Postpaid, $1.10.)

An eloquent statement of present conditions and tendencies of thought to-day among both Protestants and Roman Catholics, and of the movement towards, and possibilities of a united Christian Church of the future.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF GEORGE BANCROFT. By M. A. DE WOLFE HOWE. With portraits. 2 volumes. $4.00 net. (Postage extra.)

This is one of the most important works of history and biography of recent years. Mr. Bancroft, whose life almost covered the nineteenth century, was minister to England and later to Germany during the Franco-Prussian War, Secretary of the Navy and the friend of most of the famous men of his time. It is an invaluable record of people and events during many years.

TRUE STORIES OF CRIME. From the District Attorney's Office. By ARTHUR TRAIN, author of "McAllister and His Double." Illustrated. $1.50.

Extraordinary stories of great crimes of our own day, fiction and yet fact, and told with the art of a true story-teller. The ingenuity and daring of these adventures make thrilling stories. They are history and fiction at once, and among the most dramatic stories of our day.

SEVENTEENTH CENTURY MEN OF LATITUDE. By EDWARD AUGUSTUS GEORGE. $1.25 net. (Postpaid, $1.35.)

Sketches of the life and writings of Hales of Eton, Chillingworth, Browne, Whichcote, Taylor, Lane, Baxter and Smith, giving a novel, true, and deeply interesting account of a generally ignored, but important and illuminating phase of the period.

THE ESSENTIAL LIFE. By STEPHEN B. STANTON. $1.00 net. (Postpaid, $1.10.)

No profounder or more spirited essays on what may be called the philosophy of life have appeared in many seasons. Some of the essays are: "The Spirit in Man," "Time," "Individuality," "Imagination," "Happiness," "Morality," "Environment," "Spiritual Companionship," "Eternal Youth."

MONOLOGUES. By BEATRICE HERFORD. With illustrations by OLIVER HERFORD. $1.25.

Six of Miss Herford's famous monologues are now for the first time brought together in a book. The monologues in the book include: "A Sociable Seamstress," "The Professional Boarder," "An English Lady Packing," "The Bazaar," "Piazza Ladies," and "The Country Store."

"Not only are her monologues mercilessly true and satirical, but they illustrate the power of suggestion at its highest."—The New York Sun.

THE MASTER OF THE INN. By ROBERT HERRICK. 50 cents net. (Postpaid, 55 cents.)

A remarkable little story full of refreshing idealism.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. will publish in April a story of Seattle by Ada Woodruff Anderson, to be entitled "The Heart of the Red Firs."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish early in April another "Nature" book to follow "Our Trees, How to Know Them," which they recently published. The forthcoming book, the work of Clarence M. Weed, a teacher of nature subjects in the Lowell, Mass., State Normal School, will be called "Wild Flower Families," and will discuss the more widely-distributed herbaceous wild flowers. Some 80 illustrations will accompany the text.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. announce that, after several years of preparation, "The American Flower Garden," by Neltje Blanchan, has now so far progressed that they feel justified in announcing its publication for the autumn of this year. The following table of contents will indicate the main outline of the work: A Partnership Between Nature and Art; Situation and Design; The Formal Garden; The Old-Fashioned Garden; The Naturalistic Garden; The Wild Garden; The Rock Garden; The Water Garden; Evergreens, Flowering and Other Decorative Trees; Shrubs; Hardy Perennials; Annuals; Vines; Bulbs and Tuberous-Rooted Plants; The Lawn; Garden Furniture. Following each chapter there will be given a list, by Leonard Barron, of the best plants suited to the purposes described, with clear, cultural directions. The book will be prepared in sumptuous style, printed on a water-marked paper especially made for it, with ten color plates and ninety-six half-tones. "The American Flower Garden" is intended to do for America what William Robinson's work does for England.

THE MCCLURE COMPANY have brought out this week "Love's Logic," by Anthony Hope, a volume containing fifteen new short stories which deal with different phases of love, that really most illogical of human passions, and picture the life among the upper and aristocratic classes of England, often penetrating even further, into the homes and hearts of royalty; "Katherine Trevalyan," a novel of New York society seen from the inside, by Louise Maunsell Field, a young writer, but one who has already to an extraordinary degree learned the use of her tools as a novelist; also, "The Tenants, an Episode of the 80's," by Mary S. Watts, a story of the West fragrant of lavender and southern hospitality, in which the author conserves to a wonderful degree the color of that period not only in dress and furniture, but in its ideas and sentiments as well, and delineates several highly individualized types of character. They will bring out on April 4 "The Under Groove," by Arthur Stringer, author of "The Wire Tappers," the hero of which is a kind of restless "Raffles," upon whom an irresistible desire for criminal adventure frequently descends. Fate enables him to render numerous services to Edith Shaler, whose fancy is stirred by this gentlemanly cracksman. They also announce "The Sword Decides," by Marjorie Bowen, a novel, the scene of which is laid in southern Italy; Captain Jack Brand's "By Wild Waves Tossed," an ocean love story of an English girl and an American secret emissary, starting in England on the eve of the War of 1812; and "On the Witness Stand," by Hugo Münsterberg, a volume devoted to eight essays, giving practical applications of the results of the experiments which the author and his colleagues have made in the psychological laboratory.

Author of "The spoilers" again places his story in an Alaskan mining town sprung into sudden fame by the discovery of gold. Old man Gale, a mysterious trader of the Yukon, the father of three children mothered by an Indian squaw; his eldest daughter, a beautiful girl of eighteen, whose birth is "the barrier;" Lieutenant Burrell, a young Kentuckian, sent by the United States with a handful of men to act as mounted police; Poleon Doret, the light-hearted, great-hearted Canadian voyageur; two "bad men" who have wrongs to avenge—these are some of the characters in this tale of primitive passions, of a great hate and a great love.

Beers, Clifford Whittingham. A mind that found itself: an autobiography. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1908. c. '07. 9+363 p. O. cl., $1.50 net.

An inside account of an insane person's psychology during his confinement in insane asylums. Three years after graduating from Yale University in 1897 stress of business care brought about a mental condition in which Mr. Beers fancied himself an epileptic. This hallucination led him to attempt suicide. For a time he deemed himself persecuted, but upon recovery he felt it his duty to work for reform in insane asylums. He simulated madness and went throngh many institutions. He is again at work in business, but has written his book to call attention dispassionately to the need of new methods in the treatment of the insane.

Bourget, Paul. The weight of the name [L'émigré]; tr. from the French by G: Burnham Ives. Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. c. 349 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The France of to-day is the scene, with the struggle of the civil government to separate church and state. The leading character is the Marquis de Claviers-Grandcamp, the last representative of a noble house. The responsibilities the name carries, the limitations it places upon the old aristocrat's usefulness are illustrated by the story. His son Landri's career in the army is cut short by his refusal to aid in a forcible entry into a church for the purpose of making an inventory of its contents. His father will not permit his marriage to a most estimable woman, because she is not his equal by birth. In the end the Marquis's heart is broken by the discovery that Landri is not his son, but the son of his wife's lover. Landri, under another name, marries the woman he loves and emigrates to Canada.

A worthy couple living in the suburbs of London with eleven children, eldest aged fourteen, suddenly inherit a rich estate. They take possession and the story is given over to their most farcical experiences in their new state of life. Finally the testator's brother turns up and one and all are glad to go back to hard work and life without many servants and visitors of noble rank. The illustrations are caricatures of the unlucky family in their many misadventures.

Eldridge, G: Dyre. In the potter's house. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1908. c. 8+338 p. O. cl., †$1.50.
The title is taken from the Rubáiyát—"within the Potter's house alone I stood, surrounded by shapes of clay." The shapes of clay are the inhabitants of a primitive rural community in Maine. A minister who has conquered all that is human in himself and lives only to do God's work; a farmer, a slave to all his elemental passions; and a young lawyer full of life and of well ordered mind, all love the same woman. She has been at school and is above her people and longs for life and individual appreciation. The character study is supported by a good plot.

Arranged in the form of questions tersely answered and simply illustrated. Part 2 is written for the experienced player and contains a discussion of all the moot bridge topics of the day, explaining the latest changes and developments of the game.

Ewald, Carl. The old room; tr. from the Danish by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos. N. Y., Scribner, 1908. c. 3-317 p. D. cl., †$1.25.
A happy couple in long past days had set aside a room in an old castle, never to be entered except by husband and wife and one servant to keep it tidy. The son of every generation pledged himself upon his marriage to keep the room for its purpose. Every couple also added a piece of furniture to the room. This story is of a couple, the husband of high ideals and grave views of life, the wife gay and full of love of pleasure and life, and one boy, torn between love of the unmated father and mother. A very subtle psychological study of the different meaning of married love to man and woman. Father and mother at last join in love for the son, but too late—the end is tragedy.

Faunce, Daniel Worcester, D.D. The mature man's difficulties with his Bible. Phil., American Baptist Publication Society, [1908.] c. 9-200 p. D. cl., 75 c. net.
Written for riper intellects than its predecessor, "A young man's difficulties with his Bible." The topics discussed cover: The Bible and mathematical certainty; scientific spirit; the Bible and its morality; its methods; the biblical Christ and human thinking. The author understands modern doubt but himself loves and trusts the Book to which he has given fifty years of study.

Four-Pools (The) mystery. N. Y., Century Co., 1908. c. '07, '08. 6+336 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.
A well-known writer who chooses to be anonymous tells this story of a quiet stock farm in the Shenandoah Valley. A tired New York lawyer goes there for a vacation and lives through the mysteries of the place and the murder of an old Colonel, first traced to his uncongenial son. A clever New York newspaper man helps in the unravelling of the circumstances of the case.

Dr. Gladden holds that the modern church has so neglected its true business that a new Reformation is needed and a new leadership, which must be found in the young men and women of this generation. He points out its shortcomings and failures, and shows what it must do to be saved and to save society, referring specifically to the church in the United States.

Forbes' play has run more than 2000 times. It is the story of a girl who is engaged to her father's stableman, who goes on the stage because she can earn more to help her parents. Her younger sister is roused to do likewise. She is of weaker nature and almost falls a victim to a man whose money is helping out her sister's lover. The character of the older sister and the New York life of the play are well pictured in the novel also.

Harker, Mrs. Lizzie Allen. His first leave. N. Y., Scribner, 1908. 8+309 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A young Englishman just starting for Indian Civil Service is much concerned about the bestowal of books inherited from his guardian, a dearly loved scholar of Oxford. On the train he meets a girl of fourteen, who makes friends and invites him to see her father, also devoted to books, who will give the treasures shelter. This girl becomes the mainspring of the hero's varying fortunes. Upon "his first leave" he finds her grown, the light of the eyes to relations of his, and he decides to let India and his Indian history go and settle down in a beautiful English shire with his bright, helpful womanly wife.

Hopkins, Rev. Herbert Müller. Priest and pagan. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1908. c. 8+3-373 p. front. D. cl., †$1.50.

The "priest" is the rector of a mission parish in the Bronx, the halfwooded suburb of New York City; the "pagan" is a rich young New York man of scholarly tastes and brilliant capabilities, but wholly lacking moral purpose. These two are brought together on the day when the "pagan" returns to New York under an assumed name, having been mourned as dead for a year, and sets about to make a new life for himself. A lovely though undisciplined daughter of an impoverished family becomes the woman in the case, and the story with its glimpses of Bronx landmarks, now fast disappearing, shows the development of character in each man, one faulty but sincerely religious, the other conscienceless and frankly pagan. Author is rector of the Church of the Holy Nativity in the Bronx, and has also written "The mayor of Warwick."

Story deals with life in Indian Territory during the last years of the tribal rule of the Five Civilized Nations, before the admission of Oklahoma as a State. The time of the tale is the last decade of the last century. The heroine, daughter of a half-breed Indian and a white mother, falls in love with a young lawyer from the East, who marries her and deserts her. He meets his fate at the hands of her kinsman, who later lays the wrongs of the Indians before the President. The history of the tale is said to be accurate.

Litchfield, Grace Denio. The supreme gift; with a front. by Alice Barber Stephens.

Bost., Little, Brown & Co., 1908. c. 300 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The unexpected failure of Joan Kelden's father, a rich banker of Washington, brings to an end her many philanthropic efforts. Her pity for the poor was a supreme passion with her that nothing else could replace. How she endeavors to atone for her father's bankruptcy, to the many he has ruined, by a sacrifice of herself is the story. A large fortune for a time seems within her reach again, through the death of an aunt and uncle in an automobile accident. The question is which died first. Her father witnesses the accident and agrees to a falsehood that she may inherit. On her discovery of this she makes another pitiable sacrifice. By the author of "In the crucible," etc.

Lord Beiley, at last makes up his mind to marry his old friend Lady Sally Sallis, only child of the Earl of Hexgrove. The preparations weary him and bored with inspecting wedding presents he wanders off the day before the wedding for rest. He falls in with a troupe of actors, gets intoxicated, and when recovered finds he has missed his wedding-day. He dares not meet Lady Sally, and he hides under different names, making his living at rock-splitting, sheep-herding, tramping with street musicians, etc. The details are impossible but entertaining. Lady Sally plays an unknown part in his career of banishment. The end is Lord Beiley's repentance and Lady Sally's pardon.

Strindberg, August. The father: (a tragedy;) tr. by N. Erichsen. Bost., Luce & Co., 1907, [1908.] 99 p. D. cl., *$1 net.

The pessimist Strindberg springs from the people. "The father" was first produced in 1887. It is the story of a couple each one of whom thinks the other insane. The father does not believe their child is his and has no faith in any woman's honor. A pastor tries steadily to argue with him and a nurse shows a strong sense of right and justice. The play is suggestive and vague, but formulates many modern psychologic ideas and feelings.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 28, 1908.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

DEFECTS OF PUBLISHERS' TRADE LISTS.

THE communication printed elsewhere in this issue regarding indexes to publishers' trade lists again raises the question of the shortcomings of much too many of the trade lists issued by American and English publishers of books.

The first impression many trade lists make upon those for whom they are intended is that they are "catch-alls," into which the titles are thrown as they very likely come to the hand of the one who makes the list, without regard to author, title, subject, class, series, or any other sane arrangement. Such lists, without an index, are practically useless to the busy bookseller and librarian, and we doubt whether it pays the publisher to circulate such lists in the trade.

Another style of list that tries the patience of the bookseller is the one arranged by what its maker is pleased to call classes. In such a list the titles that evidently did not fit under one head have been forced under other and most unlikely heads, so that, unless the user is guided to the desired information by a comprehensive author and title index, it will not be available excepting so far as the self-understood is concerned.

Then there are lists, fairly well arranged alphabetically by author or title, with indexes, but into the appendix of which the publisher pitchforks a lot of supplementary matter, often covering as many pages and as much needed information as the body of the main catalogue contains, without regard to a proper arrangement or an index. We hold that such a proceeding is a sheer waste of money so far as profitable results are concerned.

All of which confirms our correspondent's contention as to the value of an index to publishers' trade lists.

PUBLISHERS' trade lists, in these days of linotype and monotype composition, may easily be kept up in uniform shape from year to year, by holding the metal and adding the new titles in their proper places in the alphabet, instead of placing the new titles either in the front or at the rear of the main list. Whatever the arrangement adopted, it should be uniform, and the doubtful information should be made accessible through an index at the end of the list, or by cross references in the body of the list. For trade purposes illustrations should be omitted, whether these be portraits of authors or facsimiles of book covers, however much these may attract the general reader. Lastly, each list, especially those intended for use in the "Publishers' Trade List Annual," should have printed at the top of each page the firm name of its publisher. We know of few additions to a trade list that would be of more practical service to one using this trade help than the publisher's name at the top of the page; for while the thumb index guides to the letter of the alphabet, the publisher's name thus prominently given would make reference to the desired catalogue practically instantaneous. A number of publishers have already adopted this suggestion, but there are still some who overlook it to their own disadvantage.

AUSTRALIA EXEMPTS ADVERTISING FROM DUTY.

WE present herewith the official notice regarding the exemption from duty of advertising matter in magazines exported to Australia:

POST OFFICE, NEW YORK, N. Y.

OFFICE OF THE POSTMASTER.

MARCH 21, 1908.

To Publishers:

In connection with the circular of this Office dated November 12, 1907, relative to the rate of customs duty applicable in the Commonwealth of Australia to advertising matter received in the mails from other countries, publishers of second-class publications are hereby notified that information has been received by the Post Office Department from the Postal Administration of Australia, that magazines, etc., containing advertisements are now exempt from duty.

EDWARD M. MORGAN, Postmaster.

THE POSTAL PROGRESS LEAGUE NEEDS HELP.

THE following appeal is commended to the trade and all interested in postal reform:

"The work of the Postal Progress League is languishing for lack of financial help. With such help, we are confident of the quick passage of our bill, H. R. 257, consolidating third and fourth class mail matter at 1 cent for each 2 ounces, the old common rate of 1874, as long demanded by the Post Office Department, if not of H. R. 16,640, our letter post bill consolidating the first with the third and fourth classes of mail matter, at the same common one cent two ounce rate.

"General Meyer fell back from the position of his predecessors simply because he was determined to have something done, and because it seemed impossible to induce Congress to bring up our present double-headed merchandise post with its rates 8 cents a pound on some merchandise—printed books, seeds, bulbs, etc., for planting—16 cents a pound on other merchandise, seeds, bulbs, etc., for food, to the old common 8 cent rate of 1874, while it appeared certain that Congress could not refuse to reduce the 16 cent a pound rate on domestic merchandise to the existing 12 cents a pound foreign rate.

"The Postmaster-General's 12 cents a pound proposition, however, complicates the present service even more than before, while the reduction in rates is of little practical value. Congress might well be reminded, we think, that one class of merchandise, printed books, enjoys a one-cent two-ounce rate not only in our domestic service but throughout the world, and we have not heard of any petitions to Congress from small book dealers praying for its abolition. Once the fact is widely known that the manufacturers and dealers in books enjoy a one-cent two-ounce rate on their merchandise throughout the world, and this without regard to the weight or bulk of single books in our domestic service and up to 4 pound 6 ounces on their foreign trade, we think Congress will be easily persuaded to give to all classes of business as cheap a domestic parcel service as that now enjoyed by the dealers and manufacturers of printed books in the postal service of the world. It may even be possible to induce General Meyer, with his practically absolute power to reduce foreign postal rates, to follow in this year, 1908, the lead of New Zealand in 1901, and offer to the world not only a two-cent letter post, but a one-cent two-ounce general merchandise post.

"It doesn't cost any more to transport other kinds of merchandise than to transport books. What is good for the book dealer will be good for the rest of us.

"We appeal to our friends not only for financial help, but to aid us further by the writing of letters to the members of Congress, House and Senate, as well as to the Postmaster-General in behalf of the immediate establishment of these much-needed postal improvements.

"JAMES L. COWLES, Secretary-Treasurer.
POSTAL PROGRESS LEAGUE,
No. 361 Broadway, New York City, March 26, 1908."

MILLION CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

THE MILLION CLUB, an association of advertising and circulation managers, which meets every Thursday at the Everett House, in New York City, to talk circulation, has just elected these officers: president, John F. Prybil, Ainslee's; vice-president, F. L. E. Gauss, McClure's; secretary-treasurer, Irvin S. Paschall, World's Work. The club is enjoying a series of informal discussions of subscription problems by various publishers. Every once in a while a dinner is given. The club is a bit unique in that it does not take formal action on any of the various propositions submitted to it, but depends on an informal and effective "I will do the same as you do" agreement.

FRENCH PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

AT the annual meeting of the French Publishers' Association, (the Cercle de la librairie de l'imprimerie, de la papeterie, du commerce, de la musique et des estampes,) held last month, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: president, M. Gauthier-Villars; vice-presidents, M.M. Bauche and Picton; secretary, M. Gillon, and treasurer, M. Hachette. Albert Brockhaus, of Leipzig, and Henri Morel, of Berne, were elected honorary members.

AN ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF THE "SAYINGS OF BUDDHA."

JUSTIN H. MOORE, a student in the department of Oriental languages at Columbia University, has completed what is said to be the first English translation of the "Iti-Vuttaka," or "Sayings of Buddha." The "Iti-Vuttaka" is one of the books of the Buddhistic canon, and from the point of view of the Oriental scholar is said to be one of the most important documents on Buddhism. The "Sayings" are believed to have been written by Buddha, or his disciples, in the fifth century B.C. The only translation known to exist was one into Chinese made in the seventh century A.D. Moore began the work of translation more than two years ago. Several East Indians and Persians who were studying at Columbia became interested in the work, and with some of the professors gave Moore much valuable assistance. The book is written for the most part in prose, but there is also considerable verse.

A BLOT ON THE POE "ESCUTCHEON."

The Gentleman's Magazine for February 25, 1754, p. 93, contains the following interesting notice of Thomas Poe, which appears to have escaped the research of all Poe's biographers in quest of a Poe genealogy:

"At the sessions of Admiralty, at the Old Bailey, John Lancey, John Lloyd, and THOMAS POE, as an accessory before the fact, were try'd for burning the ship Nightingale in order to defraud the ensurers. "Lancey was found guilty, Lloyd acquitted, and POE left 'special.' "

It is not subsequently stated whether Poe was hanged or transported to America to found an illustrious family. **.

OBITUARY NOTES.

CARL D. ECKLER, who succeeded his father, the late Peter Eckler, in the printing and publishing business at 35 Fulton Street, New York City, died on Sunday, March 22, at his home in Brooklyn. Mr. Eckler was born in Brooklyn, on April 9, 1868. Directly after graduating from Public School No. 35 he went into his father's office, where, up to his death, he was known as a hard and conscientious worker. The business will be continued by his wife under the name of Peter Eckler.

CARL EWALD, the Danish author, has just died at the age of fifty-five. Mr. Ewald has long ranked as one of the foremost men of letters in his own country, but only lately has his fame begun to spread throughout Europe and America. "Two Legs," "The Spider and Other Tales," and "My Little Boy," published last year, brought him into notice at once as a most poetical and finished writer of tales and allegories full of subtle and satirical humor and of a very charming fancy. Just at the moment of his death Charles Scribner's Sons are bringing out his latest book, called "The Old Room," a novel of life to-day, the powerful, vivid story of a domestic drama, wherein a young and pleasure-loving wife and a husband of quieter taste work out their destiny. In the force and vigor of this story Mr. Ewald has reached the climax of the expression of his great literary gift, and produced a work that will make a deep impression.

COMMUNICATIONS.

INDEXES IN PUBLISHERS' LISTS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Perhaps it is my short acquaintance with the booktrade that accounts for my ignorance; perhaps it is my inability to guess at what lies "behind the arras" of publishers' minds, but there is something that has been worrying me for the last twelve months, and so I write to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for information. What is the feud between the publisher and the index?

Of course, I exempt, immediately all publishers whose feet don't fit into my shoe of complaint. There are some houses whose catalogues are made out by author and by title, and we, who are doing research work, salute them! We not only salute them, but thank them, and sell their books!

But the others, the host of 'em that index by author or by title only, or the one Philadelphia house that doesn't index at all, but throws all its books helter skelter into a catalogue, making it more of a jumble—or jungle—than grandmother's attic, please explain to an uninitiated just "Why?"

It happens, several times a day, in the publishing house where I work, and where the correspondence is "prodigious with queries," that a book is wanted—author not known and title merely guessed at.

Where there is a double index given by the publisher, it is not such a hard matter to locate the book. But where the books are listed under author only, well, I have started at the beginning of a catalogue and waded right through it from shore to shore, finding the book at the end of the list, of course.

There are certain English publishers who lack a sense of humor to such an extent that they catalogue their publications by price only. In all the many weeks of my research work, the price of a book is the one cause for endless digging! That is the one thing I want to know!

As the object of the booktrade is to sell books, I should think the publishers would make the quoting and finding thereof as easy as possible to those poor patient ones who are trying their mortal best to sell!

O all ye publishers, give us more indexes, more comprehensive indexes, more complete indexes! And we shall find your books more readily and quote them more cheerfully to the public in general, who, when asking for a book, the title of which they are not wholly sure of, and the author they know not at all, "never can know, and never can understand" just what research work means with this evident civil war between publisher and index!

FLORENCE VAULX HENDERSON.

NEW YORK, March 24, 1908.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CENTRALIA, ILL.—The Centralia Book, Stationery and Printing Company has been purchased by George and James O. Knight. George Knight will look after the printing department and Paul H. Caldwell will have charge of the bookstore.

LEBANON, N. H.—William Henderson, bookseller, has been succeeded by Mrs. Foster.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Edmund D. Brooks, bookseller and importer, has removed to the new Handicraft Guild Building at 89 Tenth Street, South, where he has larger space and better facilities for displaying his stock.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Miss L. E. Fisher has succeeded Miss Everson, bookseller and importer, at 1604 Second Avenue, South. Miss Fisher will make a specialty of first editions, rare books and Roycroft books.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Marcus Ward Company, manufacturing stationers, at 299 Broadway, made an assignment on March 21 to Franklin S. Keller. Henry Melville was appointed receiver.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—McGirr & Company have established themselves in the book and prints business under the name of The Robert Bell Bookshop, in honor of the patriot printer and bookseller, (Philadelphia, 1768-1784,) at 1004 Walnut Street. Mr. McGirr has been for many years associated with the Franklin Bookshop and with the Rosenbach Company, and has had large experience in buying at auction, commissions for which his firm is prepared to undertake for buyers unable to attend in person.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Joseph Kohn has succeeded to Bert's second-hand bookstore at 113 North Tenth Street, and will continue it as Joe's Second-Hand Bookstore at the same location.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

DUFFIELD & Co. have in press a new book by Elinor Glynn, entitled "The Sayings of Grandmamma," a series of clever witticisms and "sayings."

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish in April "The Red Skull," a story of adventure by Fergus Hume; also, "The Widow (to Say Nothing of the Man,") by Helen Roland, author of "The Digressions of Polly."

KIPLING'S "Just So Stories" may now be had in the dark green edition, uniform with "The Day's Work," published by Doubleday, Page & Co. The book has been entirely reset and the pictures re-made to fit its new and becoming size.

AT a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Stationers' Board of Trade of New York it was ordered, in view of the satisfactory financial condition of the organization, to reduce the quarterly dues from $20 to $15, beginning with April 1.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on April 11, under the title of "Home from the Sea," George S. Wasson's third book of stories of the vanishing type of deep sea fishermen of the Maine Coast. The book has illustrations by the author.

E. F. BENSON'S novel, "Sheaves," is now on sale again in America through the agency of Doubleday, Page & Co. This cleverly-written story of a man's love for an older woman is undoubtedly Mr. Benson's best work. It was one of the six best-sellers in London.

THE effort on the part of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association to obtain legislation by Congress putting print paper and wood pulp on the free list is blocked by the Ways and Means Committee of the House, which refuses even to give them a hearing.

METHUEN & Co. have in preparation a new book by Beatrice Harradan, author of "Ships That Pass in the Night," "The Fowler," etc., to be called "The Interplay," the title of which is taken from a line by an old English writer—"And there was playe and interplaye of musick, divers instruments acting on each other in curious fashione."

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just published a revised edition of "The Symbolist Movement in Literature," by Arthur Symons; a second edition, with much additional matter, of "Reminiscences of Oxford," by the Rev. W. Tuckwell, with interesting illustrations and portraits; also, in the New Universal Library, "Utilitarianism," by John Stuart Mill.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready "Humorous Hits and How to Hold an Audience," by Grenville Kleiser, author of "How to Speak in Public," a new collection of successful recitations, sketches, stories, poems and monologues, just such as will captivate the average audience and furnish many a hearty laugh to the reader at home.

B. W. DODGE & Co. have just ready "Bridget," by Mrs. Herman Bosch, a story commencing with the arrival of Bridget in New York and reaching a somewhat unexpected dénouement; also, "Lawless Wealth," by Charles Edward Russell, in which the author traces the origin of some great American fortunes and gives an idea of how they were accumulated.

R. F. FENNO & Co. have just brought out a new novel by Burford Delannoy, author of "The Margate Mystery," entitled "Prince Charlie." They will publish in the latter part of April a new book by Maud H. Yardley, whose book "Sinless" caused some comment. The forthcoming book is entitled "Nor All Your Tears," and is described as "a luridly melodramatic story of love and crime," the scene of which is laid in London.

THE G. W. DILLINHAM Co. will issue at once "Jedge Waxem's Pocket Book," (of politics,) for this and all succeeding campaigns, because no political campaign is complete without a pocket-book. The "Pocket Book" contains some three hundred "honest and fearless political maxims" by Jedge Wabash Q. Waxem, Member of Congress from Wayback. They have been compiled by W. J. Lampton, well known to newspaper readers for his humorous verse on current topics.

ARTHUR POOLE & Co., Toronto, have just brought out a "Digest of Canadian Criminal Case Law," prepared and edited by McCrossan, Schultz and Harper. The work is said to be the only complete digest of Canadian criminal case law ever published. It contains notes of all the reported criminal and quasi-criminal cases decided in the Canadian courts from 1823 to 1907, with the single exception of the Province of Quebec, relative to which the cases decided since the adoption of the Criminal Code in 1892 alone have been noted.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish as a gift volume for Easter a short but illuminative study of the future life, by Miss Lilian Whiting, entitled "Lilies of Eternal Peace." The volume will be attractively printed and bound. The publication, next month, of Gabriel Compayre's "Montaigne," by the Crowells, completes a series of notable volumes on pedagogy by this famous French educator. The series is known as Pioneers in Education, and includes separate volumes; also, upon J. J. Rousseau, Herbert Spencer, Pestalozzi, Herbart and Horace Mann.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. expect to publish next month a "Life of John C. Calhoun," by Gaillard Hunt, who comes from an old South Carolina family of Unionist tendencies that left the State because of the triumphs of Calhoun's political theories on the subject of nullification. The author, therefore, voices the views of the Southern Unionists, though he is said to have written a quite sympathetic biography of the "great nullifier." Mr. Hunt, who is known for his edition of James Madison's writings and other historical works, is an officer in the State Department at Washington.

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY will publish at once Nathan Haskell Dole's "A Teacher of Dante, and Other Studies in Italian Literature." Brunetto Latini is the subject of the titular essay. A second essay treats of the picturesque in Dante's writings. A careful study of early Italian poetry leads to its culmination in Petrarca. Somewhat the same treatment of the "Novellino" serves as an introduction to Boccaccio. A succinct history of the Latin and early vernacular drama is followed by biographical sketches of Goldoni. Charles Edward Russell's "Thomas Chatterton," which has been delayed on account of the photogravure illustrations, is now ready for publication.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish at once "Spanish Composition," by Alfred Remy, of the School of Commerce, Brooklyn, N. Y.,—graded selections dealing with Spanish life, history and customs, and provided with notes and a vocabulary. The work is suited to follow ordinary elementary grammatical instruction, and will provide material enough for an average course in this department. They have in press Tamayo's 'Lo Positivo," edited with notes and vocabulary by Philip Harry and A. De Salvio, of Northwestern University; Gutiérrez's "El Trovador," with notes and vocabulary by Dr. H. H. Vaughan, of the University of Michigan; and Valera's "Pepita Jiménez," with notes and vocabulary by Professor G. L. Lincoln, of Harvard University.

THE GRAFTON PRESS, of New York City, announces a new book by Elbert F. Farman, ex-Consul General at Cairo, entitled "Egypt and Its Betrayal," in which the author deals with the country and its habitants and describes the manner and means by which the people have been and are being "spoiled" for the benefit of the Europeans. Judge Farman takes exception to the laudatory manner in which Lord Cromer's rule in Egypt has been treated by the English and American press, declaring that Lord Cromer "left no native mourners in Egypt outside the official group and a favored class." The author's earlier book, "Along the Nile," is brought out in a new edition. They also announce a volume on "The Ancestry of Leander Howard Crall of New York;" also, a genealogy of the Cantrill family in America, prepared by Mrs. Susan Cantrill Christie.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly a book entitled "Popular Participation in Law Making," by Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier, lately of the Nebraska Supreme Court, and now United States Judge in the Philippines. In this book Judge Lobingier traces the growth of the popular demand for opportunity to act directly in civic affairs without the intervention of delegates or middle men. The history of this movement, which begins with our first knowledge of Teutonic political customs, will be to many readers a revelation of the trend of popular government. Following this historical section, Judge Lobingier deals with the application of the principles to the American constitutions which make their first appearance during the early years of the Revolutionary War. A third division treats of the application of the principle to ordinary legislation and involves the most pressing of present-day civic problems. They will bring out in April cheaper editions of F. Marion Crawford's "Zoroaster" and Marzio's "Crucifix."

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. will publish on April 4, "My Day and Generation," by Colonel Clark G. Carr, in which the distinguished author of "The Illini" and "Lincoln at Gettysburg" presents some of the pivotal experiences in his long career of public usefulness. Colonel Carr has known personally and intimately probably as many of the great men and women of this country as any other man now living, and his recollections cover our history from the period of the anti-slavery agitation down to the present time. His book is not a formal autobiography, but presents in essay form incidents in his life that are fraught with meaning for all who would understand how this country has come to be what it is. Colonel Carr's public career has identified him with the Republican party since its inception, throwing him into contact with Lincoln, Douglas, Grant, Sherman, Logan, and the great ones of the Civil War, and has included his service for four years as Minister from this country to the court of Denmark. The volume contains over sixty illustrations.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have in preparation "The Life and Works of James Buchanan," by Professor John Bassett Moore, of Columbia University, who is moved by a desire to restore to more just regard the President under whom the conditions became ripe for the War between the States. The work will be in twelve volumes, two of which will be ready this spring. They have also in press "The Life and Works of Christopher Dock," known in Pennsylvania history as "the Schoolmaster of the Skippack," translated and edited by Professor Martin G. Brumbaugh, superintendent of the schools of Philadelphia. Dock, a Mennonite, opened a school early in the eighteenth century in Montgomery County, Pa., and wrote the first book on school management—his "Schulordnung"—to be published in this country. The work will have an introduction by ex-Governor Pennypacker. Early in April they will publish a book entitled "Why Worry?" by Dr. George Lincoln Walton, of Boston, whose object is simply to deal with the "blues" by wholesome natural means, applying old philosophy to new conditions.

HARPER & BROTHERS will bring out on April 2 a novel of the Maine woods, entitled "King Spruce," by Holman Day. The hero, Dwight Wade, full of the enthusiasm of youth, pits his pluck against the powers of a tyrant, whose daughter is the choice of his heart. The story is said to abound with adventure, including the accounts of a great forest fire, the blowing up of the dam, and the mad race with the logs. They will also publish on the same date "Santa Lucia," a novel by Mary Austin, in which is contrasted the fate of two young married couples; "The Duke of Gandia," Swinburne's new dramatic tragedy in two acts, with Cesare Borgia as the central figure; "Motley's Dutch Nation," under which title William Elliot Griffis has condensed "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," with notes and introduction, biographical sketch, and the historical narrative, including the reign of Queen Wilhelmina continued to 1908, a special chapter telling of the accession of the queen, which was witnessed by the author; also, "John and Sebastian Cabot," by Frederick A. Ober, in which the author makes clear many points that have hitherto been obscured by controversy.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready Frances Powell's new novel, "Old Mr. Davenant's Money," a real romance with a mystery of a most ingenious and puzzling kind, a love story and an unexpected ending that will give thrills to the most experienced reader of fiction. The scene is laid in the gay life of the summer colony on Long Island, which forms a very effective contrast to the powerful tragedy and mystery of the story. They have also just ready a translation of René Bazin's great novel, "The Nun," ("L' Isolée,") the exquisite and profoundly powerful story of five nuns driven from the convent into the world by the recent French law, which in the original has already passed its fifty-eighth edition and created a peculiarly deep impression through its striking and brilliant treatment of a question of the moment; also, "Passing Protestantism and Coming Catholicism," by the Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, a suggestive and important book on modern religious tendencies, whose author sees in "Modernism" a possible medium of a future union of the Protestants and Roman Catholics into one united Christian Church. They have added to their uniform edition of Ibsen's complete works "The Life of Henrik Ibsen," by Edmund Gosse.

THE FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready "The Man of Yesterday—a Romance of a Vanishing Race," by Mary Holland Kinkaid, a novel that deals with conditions in the Indian Territory during the last days of tribal rule; also, "The Wonder Book of the Atmosphere," by Professor E. J. Houston, a new volume in The Wonder Books of Science series, in which both the frequent and the rare phenomena of nature are interestingly explained. They will publish next week "The Garden Diary and Country Home Guide," by Loring Underwood, a practical volume, which, by its excellently arranged blank pages and its cross index, will enable its owner to record his experiences at gardening, truck farming, etc., during four successive years; also, Miss Alice Lounsberry's "The Garden Book for Young People," which book tells, in the form of an attractive story, how children, with little ground and pocket money, can have their own garden. They will bring out next month a book of unusual interest by Goodwin Brown, a leading member of the New York Bar, entitled "Scientific Nutrition Simplified, a Condensed Statement and Explanation for Everybody of the Discoveries of Chittenden, Fletcher and Others." This book will in no way take the place of the other books on the subject of nutrition, but it is just the medium through which a man may make an intelligent beginning toward right living and eating.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have just published for the Cambridge University Press the following works: "Slavonic Europe, a Political History of Poland and Russia from 1447 to 1796," by E. Nisbet Bain, assistant librarian at the British Museum, in the Cambridge Historical Series, the aim of which is to sketch the history of modern Europe, the histories of the different countries being described separately; "The Theory of Light, a treatise on physical optics," by Dr. Richard C. Maclaurin, which will be in three volumes, the first treating of the propagation, reflection and refraction of light, the second, of dispersion, aberration, diffraction, etc., and the third, of the history of optical theories; "Modern Electrical Theory," by Norman Robert Campbell, which treats logically and analytically the relation of electricity and matter, the author's main divisions being: the Electromagnetic Field, the Electron Theory, Deductive methods, the Electron Theory Inductive Methods and Electricity and Matter; "Spirit in the New Testament," an inquiry into the use of the word IIneyma in all passages, and a survey of the evidence concerning the Holy Spirit, by Edward William Winstanley, inspector of religious education in the Diocese of Litchfield, Eng.; the fourth edition of "The Growth of English Industry and Commerce in Modern Times," by W. Cunningham, D.D., the parts of which can now be purchased separately; also, "The Work of John Samuel Budgett, Balfour student of the University of Cambridge, being a collection of his zoological papers, together with a biographical sketch by A. E. Shipley, and contributions by Richard Assheton, Edward J. Bles, Edward T. Browne, J. Herbert Budgett and J. Graham Kerr, edited by J. Graham Kerr, with a portrait and 28 colored plates.

APRIL 9, 10, 2:30 P.M.—Miscellaneous. (628 lots.)—Anderson.

PICK-UPS.

THE HON. GARDNER STOW, of Saratoga Co., N. Y., was made attorney general of the State by Governor Horatio Seymour. In an autobiographical letter published 1855 he says: "Poverty drove me in 1806 into Mr. Weston's office at Sandy Hill, N. Y. He had a prodigious library, so it seemed to me; fully one hundred dollars' worth of books! Among them I found a new work in boards, Williams's "Abridgment of Cases in the King's Bench" in several volumes. Noticing on the back "Price £1 in boards," I innocently supposed it to be an advertisement that the bookseller would accommodate his patrons by accepting for payment boards instead of cash."

DE W. H. M.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NEW SPRING BOOKS

NOW READY

Humorous Hits and How to Hold an Audience

By Grenville Kleiser. A collection of the newest and best selections, stories, and sketches of the foremost authors, entertainers, and humorists, with instructions on proper delivery, and how to hold an audience. Mr. Kleiser is also author of "How to Speak in Public." 12mo, Cloth, 326 pages. Price, $1.00 net.

Home Gymnastics According to the Ling System

By Anders Wide, M.D. New and revised edition. Simple, effective exercises, mostly without apparatus, on the Swedish system, so widely and favorably known in Europe and America. 12mo, Cloth, 69 pages. Price, 50 cents net.

Manikin Chart of the Human System

An overlapping flat model of a normal human being, showing, first, the internal organs of the chest and abdomen; second, the muscular system; third, the blood vessels or circulatory system; fourth, the nervous system; fifth, the skeleton. The different parts of the human anatomy are all shown in their natural colors. Each part numbered and carefully indexed. The whole mounted between two cloth covers, 7 x 10 inches, handy for the library bookcase or table. Price, complete, $1.50 postpaid.

On Self-Culture

New edition. By John Stuart Blackie, late Professor of Greek at Edinburgh University. A standard work by this well-known writer. 12mo, Cloth. 75 cents, postpaid.

The Sanitary Question-Box

By Charles F. Wingate, Consulting Sanitary Engineer. A handy guide to the essentials of sanitation and ventilation in the home. 12mo, Cloth. 50 cents, postpaid.

The Friends' Hymnal

New and revised edition. Approved and officially adopted by the Society of Friends. 736 selections. Music and words in juxtaposition. Psalter, commandments and Lord's Prayer. Cloth binding, 8¾ x 6½ inches. Price, $1.00.

TO BE ISSUED IN APRIL

How to Invest Money

By George Garr Henry, Vice-President of the Guarantee Trust Company, New York. Various forms of safe investments, as bonds, stocks, and mortgages, are carefully explained, and their income-bearing prospects, together with their security for the principal invested, are judiciously set forth. It is a book, primarily, for the small investor, who wants safe investments with fair rates of interest. 12mo, Cloth. Price, 75 cents net.

The New Encyclopedia of Social Reform

Edited by William D. P. Bliss. An absolutely new and reliable work containing the very latest information and statistics in the social, political, and industrial life of to-day. Large 8vo (6¾ x 10), 1,344 pages. Cloth, $7.50; Sheep, $9.50; Half Morocco, $12.00; Full Morocco, $14.00. (All net.)

Sermons Which Have Won Souls

By Louis Albert Banks, D.D. Dr. Banks since entering upon his recent pastorate in Denver has been blest with some 1,500 conversions. These sermons were largely instrumental in accomplishing this result. In the preface many valuable suggestions are given by Dr. Banks on his new methods of "following up" each anxious inquirer. 12mo, Cloth. Price, $1.40 net.

TO BE ISSUED IN MAY

Smiling 'Round the World

By Marshall P. Wilder. Inspired by a recent tour around the world, in which Mr. Wilder saw and heard much to suggest many a hearty laugh which he puts in his felicitous and happy vein. 12mo, Cloth. Illustrated. Price, $1.50.

Long Life and How to Attain It

By Pearce Kintzing, M.D., who has long been a professor in a medical college in Baltimore. Simple, sane, practical advice by a physician of wide and long experience, by which the every-day man or woman may ward off disease, preserve health, and prolong life. The book has a scientific background which will commend it to the attention of the physician as well. His manner of presenting the matter, and his experience in adapting his advice to every-day life, at once command the reader's confidence and enthusiasm. 12mo, Cloth. Price, $1.00 net.

THE CLIQUE

(ESTABLISHED 1890

The Recognized Organ of the Second-Hand Book Trade

THE CLIQUE is read by every bookseller who deals in old books in Great Britain, and by many in the United States and on the Continent.

THE CLIQUE advertises for about 4000 books every week; books which are wanted by its Members, and for which they are willing to pay a fair price.

THE CLIQUE is issued to booksellers only, its motto being "The Trade for THE TRADE." Booksellers can therefore report to our advertisers in confidence that they will not be "cut" by amateur dealers, who are not obliged to make their living by selling books.

THE CLIQUE is the best medium for all advertisements which appeal to booksellers, and its rates are lower than those of any tradepaper in the world.

SUBSCRIPTION 6s 6d ($1.50) per annum, post free; but as all subscriptions terminate in December subscribers may deduct 1½d per line for each week of the year that has passed.
